Resources on Race for People of Faith

The recent killings of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, and Ahmaud Arbery, among others, have prompted many white Christians to begin asking questions about race and racism in America. Reconciliation across racial and ethnic lines is at the heart of the gospel (see, for example, Ephesians 2:11-22), and the white church has much to confess, much to lament, and much to learn. For those looking to engage and respond, the Love Mercy Do Justice mission priority of the Evangelical Covenant Church has shared recommended resources ranging from books and videos, to music, poetry, and ideas for action. Our conference superintendent, Pastor Danny Martinez, has also hosted video conversations with pastors, professors, and ministry leaders who have insight into these issues. These videos are available on the Central Conference YouTube channel. You can also find books on racial justice by several Covenant authors (including Brenda Salter McNeil, David Swanson, Daniel Hill, Dominique Gilliard, Jose Humphreys, and Soong-Chan Rah, among others) available for free download this week from InterVarsity Press.

How might God use this historic moment in your life and in the life of the church?

We have face masks! These washable cloth face masks are free to any in our church family who can use them for trips to the grocery store, doctor's office, etc. Just let us know how many you would like.

A Note from the Treasurer: Thank you all for your generous financial support of Millard Church. The contributions received in May have increased the monthly average contributions to $5,700/month. Additionally we received a "one time" general fund contribution of $5,000 AND a memorial gift from the family of Ron Sax, in the amount of $10,000. God is good!
